Mark schemes must be read in conjunction with the question papers and the report on the examination.

- CIE will not enter into discussions or correspondence in connection with these mark schemes.

CIE is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2010 question papers for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level syllabuses and some Ordinary Level syllabuses.

- no hierarchy in Islam or during Hajj; beliefs and actions unites community in feelings of brotherhood (1)
- sacrifice of an animal in remembrance of Ibrahim's willingness to sacrifice his son, shared with relatives and given to the needy (1)

11 (a) How is a marriage ceremony conducted ? [10]

- both the bride-to-be and the groom must consent to marry (1)
- consent sometimes asked separately [to avoid coercion] (1)
- each one asked thrice whether they wish to marry (1)
- Imam [or learned person] can conduct brief nikah ceremony (1)
- give sermon [khutba] (1)
- remind couple of their duties towards Allah and each other (1)
- contract made on which both have to sign (1)
- legal guardian [wakil] representing the bride, is present (1)
- two witnesses sign contract as well (1)
- being a contract it can be terminated by either side (1)
- dowry [mahr] is a gift the groom gives to the bride; can be symbolic as well (1)
- amount may be stipulated in contract (1)
- other requirements may be written in e.g. husband may not marry a second wife, or wife allowed to work (1)
- prayers said by the Imam for the happiness of the bride and groom (1)
- feast [walima] held after marriage consummated to announce the marriage; this is a recommended action [wajib] (1)

(b) What do you think is meant by the Hadith 'Marriage is half of faith'? [10]

- the Prophet gave great importance to marriage [knowing how badly women were treated in the time of jahiliya] (1)
- he equated it to a religious duty; value of marriage takes on special meaning when connected with faith (1)
- Qur'an and the Prophet speak of rights and responsibilities of both husbands and wives towards each other: role of husband to treat wife with kindness, honour, patience, or free her from marital bond honourably without harm [2:229-32; 4:19] (1)
- role of wife having rights and duties but men have a degree above [2:228] as they are trustees, guardians, protectors and 'men are maintainers of women' [4:34] (1)
- both partners in a marriage are equal as Muslims in the eyes of Allah (1)
- the only superiority recognised in Islam and reiterated by the Prophet is that of piety and good deeds [49:13] (1)
- both husband and wife have to strive to fulfil the other half of faith [make a good marriage] and be 'a comfort to each other' (1)
- Prophet said 'the best of you is the one who is best towards his wife' encouraging men to change their attitude towards women (1)
- also in the Last Sermon... 'taken them [wives] as a trust of Allah' (1)
- both the Qur'an and the Prophet commanded kindness to women (1)
- a good marriage strengthens the bonds of brotherhood between two families (1)
- parents who are good Muslims and have a caring, stable relationship are able to bring up happy, well-adjusted children able to carry the torch of Islam further (1)

12 (a) How did Muslims classify Hadith into sahih, hasan, daif and mauzu? [10]

- two parts of each Hadith: isnad: the chain of narrators; and matn: the text (1)
- both had to be verifiable to be accepted as authentic (1)
- the chain of narrators goes back to the Prophet, unbroken (1)
- isnad : evaluation of character of narrators:
were they pious?
were they honest?
did they have good memories?
were they of an age when they could understand importance of what they heard?
were other Hadith from this person reliable?
was a specific link in the chain of narrators possible; did their lives overlap?
was there evidence that they were in the same place at the same time?
were there multiple chains of transmission?
sahih [authentic] Hadith fulfilled all above conditions

[4 marks for any four points made about character from above]

- main [text] should be in pure Arabic [like the Prophet spoke] must not be in conflict with Qur'an or other Hadith must not be against historical facts must not be against reason or common sense or against the Prophet's family must not favour any group or tribe must not suggest a big reward for a small action or vice versa

[4 marks for any two points made from above]

- Hadith classed as hasan [approved] may have had some narrators whose memories may have been found to be defective (1)
- Hadith classed as daif [weak] may have had some narrator who did not speak the truth, may have known to have a bad memory, or there may have been a break in the chain of narrators (1)
- Hadith classed as mauzu [fabricated] attributed words and action to the Prophet that he could not have said or done (1)

(b) How would you apply the teaching of the Hadith on generosity in your life? [10]

'Let him who believes in Allah and the Last day either speak good or keep silent, and let him who believes in Allah and the Last Day be generous to his neighbour; and let him who believes in Allah and the Last Day be generous to his guest.' – related by al Bukhari and Muslim.

Candidates understanding of this Hadith may mention the following acceptable answers tailored to show what they do in their own lives. A simple explanation of the Hadith is not enough.

- generosity can be in speech or action
- to believe in Allah and the Day of Judgement [thus consider oneself a good Muslim] also means not to be judgemental towards others
- be generous in speech, say good things to others rather than be hurtful
- generosity towards neighbours suggests concern for others [not just other Muslims] materially and otherwise; Muslims need to be pro-active
- generosity towards guests suggests a welcoming attitude. This is the Muslim tradition of hospitality. In the Prophet's household even meagre food was shared with whoever came
